INTRODUCTION

My wife had spotted a recipe that she thought would be great for me to cook. I was reading "Scouting" magazine and low and behold, I came across a recipe for pizza in a Dutch oven. Now I had two recipes that I wanted to save. After typing them up on the computer, I decided to kill some time and surf the Internet. I did a search on Dutch ovens and the result is several months of work and this book.

This book is a collection of recipes and ideas from that search plus additions from various other scouting resources (like Pow Wow books and Scout basic training handouts). I have done my best to ensure that permission for using this material was obtained. I do not consider myself the author of this book. I have just assembled the talents of many people into a collection of recipes for ease of use.

Some of the material contained within has restrictions attached by the original authors. The below list contains two major sources for the material in my book and their usage statements.

I have talked to John by E-mail and got his OK. We will also be swapping recipes in the coming months.

I hope to keep updates of this book available on the internet. You can find it at: (www.geocities.com/yosemite/1081). Select Scout Cooking and you'll find it.

SOME HISTORY of the DUTCH OVEN

The origin of the Dutch oven has been the cause of much discussion and debate. It is sufficient to say that Dutch ovens first came to this continent from Europe before the United States of America was a country. Some claim the name comes from Dutch peddlers they imported the ovens from Holland and sold them door to door from their wagons. Paul Revere is reported to have been one of the early manufacturers of Dutch ovens in this country. Lewis and Clark carried Dutch ovens on their cross country trek. The fur trappers, explorers, pioneers and cattle drivers all depended on the Dutch oven to provide a wide range of hardy meals as they blazed their way into the history books. In more recent times, cattle ranchers, river rafters, black powder clubs, back country horsemen, trail guides and boy scouts have enjoyed the fun of preparing food with these ovens, as well as the quality of food that can be produced. In recent years there has been a rapidly growing interest in use of Dutch ovens for camping, picnics and backyard gatherings.

Competitive Cookoffs have developed over the last two decades. They provide opportunities to get together, develop and share recipes, enjoy lots of good food and enjoy doing something well. Many have become very proficient at preparing excellent meals in these apparently primitive devices. One reason Dutch oven cooking is making a strong comeback may be because it clearly an art rather than a science allowing to chiefs time to relax and be creative.

SELECTING A DUTCH OVEN

Dutch ovens come in a variety of sizes. The chart below will help you decide the correct size for based your use. I have found a good starting size is the 12" (6 quart) oven.

OVEN CAPACITY	OVEN SIZE	TYPES OF FOOD
2 quarts	8"	Recipes for 2 people, vegetables, desserts
4 quarts	10"	Anything for 2-6 people, beans, rolls, cobblers, good size for testing recipes.
6 quarts	12"	Main dishes to serve 12-14 people, or side dishes of rolls, desserts.
8 quarts	14"	Main dishes to serve 16-20 people, or side dishes of rolls, vegetables, potatoes, desserts
14 quarts	16"	Any food for large groups

There are virtually hundreds of option and size combinations available, so it would be impractical for me to tell you which oven is the one for you. Each type of oven is designed for a different type of cooking situation. I will go over the various options and you will have to decide which oven or ovens fit your needs.

There are two materials used in the forming of a Dutch oven. The majority are cast iron. There are, however, ovens made from aluminum. These ovens are light weight alternatives that do not rust. The aluminum will reflect heat so you will need to use more coals than with the cast iron to produce the same amount of heat. Almost everyone I have talked to prefer to use cast iron. It is said that you can get a more even heat with cast iron and that once your cast iron oven is well seasoned, it will add to the overall flavor of meals that are cooked.

In shopping for an oven, you should look for one that is obviously well made. Look at the bail handle. It should be of heavy gauge wire and securely attached to molded tangs on the side of the oven. Ovens that have riveted tabs should be avoided. Most oven handles will lay down against the side of the oven in both directions. If you look hard enough, you will find some that allow the handle to stand up at a 45 degree angle on one side. This allows for easier access to the handle when positioning or removing the oven from the fire.

Another area that bears close examination is the handle on the lid. It should be a loop attached to the lid on both ends and hollow in the center allowing it to be easily hooked. Stay away from the ones that have a molded solid tab on the lid for a handle. These are very difficult to grasp and manage with a load of coals. The loop style offers much better control.

While examining the lid, check that it has a lip or ridge around the outer edge. The lip keeps the coals from sliding off the lid and helps prevent ashes from falling into the food while removing the lid. Don't get me wrong, the ridgeless ones can be used but it is difficult to keep coals on the lid and if you are not meticulous in cleaning the ash from the lid each and every time you open the oven, you will end up with ash in your food. The lip virtually eliminates the problem and the lid can be lifted, even fully loaded, with ash and coals with little difficulty.

Another feature to look at is the legs. The most common variety is one with three legs, although flat-bottomed ones and four legged ones can also be found. For outdoor cooking, legs are a necessity as they maintain the height of the oven above ground allowing air for the coals underneath. The flat bottomed ones can be set up on rocks (which are scarce as hen's teeth in Florida) or up on steel tent pegs. If you figure in Murphy's Law, the flat-bottom ovens are best left in the store or on the kitchen stove where their use was intended. I highly recommend three legs over four simply for the stability factor. It is much more stable with three legs sitting on rough ground than with four.

The last option to look at is a second handle attached to the lid or upper rim on the oven base. Some ovens are offered with a skillet type handle attached to the lid. This, in theory, is a good idea, but in reality they seem to be more in the way than an assistance. The handle does assist in using the lid up-side-down as a skillet or griddle. When using it as a lid, they get in the way of the bail handle and also misbalance the lid when lifting by the center hoop. They also tend to be in the way during storage and packing situations. Fixed handles on the oven base, with one exception, should be absolutely avoided. I believe the theory behind these handles was to make the oven easier to position in a deep fire pit. If you insist on considering the handle, take a couple of red bricks with you to the store and place them in the oven. Then give the oven a lift by the handle and you will see the uselessness in the handle. A loaded 12" oven can weigh 20 to 25 pounds, a real wrist breaker.

The one exception is a small tab sometimes offered which is about 1 to 1½" deep and 2-3" wide on the upper lip of the oven. This tab makes pouring liquids from the oven very easy and its small size has never caused storage or packing problems for me.

Other valuable features to look for are:

1. A looped handle on the lid. This can be used to lift the lid during cooking.
2. Avoid a long handle that sticks out from the side. A better choice would be a Dutch oven with a heavy wire handle that is attached on either side of the oven. This handle will allow you to rotate the oven during cooking and aid in carrying. This handle can fold out of the way when not needed or be positioned during cooking for easy lift.

ACCESSORIES AND EQUIPMENT

In addition to the Dutch oven, here are some other items you will find helpful.

lid lifter	flat round pan such as a	small whisk broom, not spatula	pizza pan for each oven	plastic, for removing shovel	heavy leather gloves or	ashes from lid
paper towels	pot holders	aluminum pie plates cooking oil	long handled spoon	firestarter/stove
aluminum foil	tongs	pancake turner
measuring cups and spoons

These items are available through the Scout Shop or at many local retailers. There are pot covers and other specialized accessories available although you may need to obtain them through mail-order. Many books are available that include information on the care and selection of Dutch ovens and they also include a great variety of recipes.

Oven Seasoning Method #1

(From Dutch Oven Cooking) Just a tidbit of information for those who have a need for seasoning cast iron cookware. After using it for years and following the instructions that came with my oven, Lodge brand ironware, I think I've gotten a more fool proof way of getting a nice even rock hard seasoning in minimum time.

I finally broke down and bought a #10 (4 quart) outdoor Dutch oven. The seasoning instructions said (basically): "wash, dry, thin coat of Crisco, bake for 1 hour at 300 degrees" Remembering my experience in the past with this generic set of instructions, I tried a new way. The old way will work, but you usually get puddling of the melted Crisco and it doesn't 'cure' well enough and is usually sticky and not so good.

This time I washed the iron with boiling water to remove any casting oils, then baked it (plain, dry) in a 200 degree oven for a while to ensure that all water was dried out and not remaining in the pores of the metal. DO NOT heat too long as oven will rust. Once the iron had cooled barely enough to handle, that is still warm enough to thin the oil and help it to soak in, I rubbed a very thin coat of corn oil into the metal, making sure I got every exposed spot of iron on the .

I baked it at 425 degrees until the oil turned very dark, nearly black. I let it cool just enough again, then repeated the oil rub/baking process. At that point, it looked beautiful, nice dark color, rock hard finish.

Just for the heck of it though, I rubbed and baked one last time, nice dark Dutch oven with a beautiful 10-year-old looking seasoning.

Baked a couple of Cornish game hens (and carrots, potatoes, cob corn) in it this weekend using coals, and it turned out great and NOTHING stuck to the iron! I'm happy! Next time...bread! (Personal note from author. I used this method when I picked up my new Dutch oven. It worked well. Make sure that you have some OLD pot holders on hand to handle the Dutch oven. Your oven is oily and the oil will get on the holders. Your spouse may not be too happy if this happens. If it does, offer to keep the soiled pot holders and buy her new ones. It worked for me.)

Oven Seasoning Method #2

One of the most important keys to enjoying your new cookware and to assures that it lasts for years is to properly prepare or season the pieces.

Seasoning prevents rusting, and will fill the small rough areas in the surface to keep food from sticking, making cast iron easy to clean.

Cast iron comes from the factory with a protective coating to prevent rusting in transit and storage. The protective coating must be removed prior to seasoning your oven.

The best way to do this is to scrub the oven with a mild detergent and warm water, inside and out. After this initial washing, THIS SHOULD BE THE LAST TIME YOU USE SOAP OR DETERGENT ON YOUR COOKWARE.

To season the oven, most manufacturers recommend a light coating of vegetable oil or shorting be wiped on all surfaces of the oven. DO NOT USE BUTTER OF MARGARINE.

Place the cookware in a conventional home oven at 350 degrees for 2 hours. Wipe all surfaces with oil and return to the oven at 200 degrees for 6 hours. EVERY 2 HOURS THE SURFACE SHOULD BE RE-COATED WITH OIL.

When this process is finished, your cookware will look like it has a waxy, yellow finish and will be non-stick cookware.

After each use of your oven, you will need to re-coat with a little oil. With continued use, the oven will eventually become black and the flavor will be enhances.

If your oven ever loses its seasoning due to rust or improper care, you can brush off the rust or grime and then re-season the oven in the same manner just described.

Charcoal Preparation

Buy a high quality charcoal (like Kingsford charcoal); the cheap stuff does not burn predictably.

Fill one charcoal lighter can with charcoal for each Dutch oven and place on fire grate above a roaring fire. For each 3 to 5 cans, light one additional can. When most of the briquettes show some light gray color, the charcoal is ready to be used. For 5 Dutch ovens, prepare 6 charcoal cans.

To eliminate the need for lighter fluid, there are various other methods of starting charcoal.

One method that can take 1/3 the time involves using charcoal starter made from a five gallon can with a hole cut out of the side and a wire grate placed in the center of the can. A charcoal chimney can be purchased from your local Dutch oven dealer or Bar-B-Que dealer.

HEAT CONTROL

Cast iron cooking requires a constant even heat where possible. When using your oven outdoors, here are a few tips that will be helpful to know.

When cooking outdoors, high quality charcoal briquettes are recommended. Briquettes provide a long lasting, even heat source.

By varying the number of briquettes placed underneath and on top of the Dutch oven, the temperature inside the oven can be accurately controlled.

For boiling, deep frying, and stewing, you will want more coals on the bottom where this higher heat will be transmitted the liquid in the oven and then the food. Baking requires that you put more coals on the lid.

Prior to cooking you will want to preheat the Dutch oven. You do this by placing a few coals under and on top of the oven for a few minutes before cooking.

Here are two easy formulas to help you control the cooking temperature.

BAKING

OVEN CAPACITY	COALS ON TOP	COALS ON BOTTOM
2 quarts	7-9	3-5
4 quarts	11-14	4-6
6 quarts	15-18	6-8
8 quarts	18-22	7-9
14 quarts	21-24	9-22

GENERAL COOKING

OVEN CAPACITY	COALS ON TOP	COALS ON BOTTOM
2 quarts	3-5	7-9
4 quarts	4-6	11-14
6 quarts	6-7	15-18
8 quarts	7-9	18-22
14 quarts	9-11	21-24

Each briquette adds about 20 degrees

NOW TO CHECK THE TEMPERATURE OF YOUR OVEN

Put a teaspoon of flour into a pan; place the pan inside the Dutch oven and cover. Cook 5 minutes.

Light brown flower = 350 degrees F

Dark brown flower = 400 to 450 degrees F

Note: If the flour turns dark brown in under 3 minutes, the oven is too hot for proper cooking.

It is important to remember that these hints are only a guide to help you get started. You will need to adjust briquettes according to your recipe. Keep in mind that the weather, temperature and ground sort can effect cooking temperature as will the brand of charcoal you use. Remember to be patient, do not try to cook to fast.

A strong wind or breeze will raise the temperature.
Direct sunlight will raise the temperature.
Higher air temperature will likely raise the temperature.
High humidity in the air will lower the temperature.
Shade will lower the temperature.
A high altitude will lower the temperature.

Besides getting the correct temperature, many of your recipes require that you have correct heat placement. For example;

Stews, soups, chili, and other liquid dishes require more heat on the bottom that the top.

Meat, poultry, potatoes, beans, vegetables, and cobblers require even heat distribution of heat on the top and bottom.

Cakes, breads, biscuits, and cookies require most of the heat on top and little heat on the bottom.

Some sauces require heat only on the bottom.

Stacking of Dutch ovens is a convenient way of saving space and sharing heat. This is best used for dishes that require even heating.

The greatest sin in Dutch oven cooking is to run out of heat. If cooking is going to take more than hour, it is advisable to start a new batch of charcoal about 30 minutes after your original charcoal was started. This will result in fresh coals most of an hour after the original ones started, so if you need more heat to finish the dish you will have it.

It can take twice a much charcoal to cook a dish if the wind is blowing much at all. If it is blowing briskly you will want to fashion some kind of wind break to save charcoal and to enable the oven to be heated evenly.

CLEAN UP

If you have used a well-seasoned oven, clean up is easy.

First, remove any excess food particles with a metal or wooden spatula. Next, place some water (NO SOAP OR DETERGENT) in the oven and reheat until water is warm. Scrap off any residual food (Teflon scouring pad may be used). Wipe dry. Put a thin layer of vegetable oil or shorting on the inside of the cookware (DO NOT USE BUTTER OR MARGARINE). Wipe out excess oil.

“Burning out” your cookware is not recommended, as this will require re-seasoning your oven

Cast iron should be stored in a cool room, Dutch oven lids should be inverted with a paper towel between the lid and the oven.

If the oil in your cookware becomes rancid, reheat until the oil is liquefied and then wipe out any excess oil. Re-wipe with fresh vegetable oil or shorting before use.

Greg’s Personal Favorite Method of Cleaning

Add 1 to 2” of clean water and bring to a boil (uncovered) this will open the cast iron pores and allow the food to release. Scrape again, if the water is very dirty repeat with fresh water and after boiling pour off ½ the water. (trick) Wad up a foot long piece of aluminum foil and use it to scrub the Dutch oven. For all of you who now protest, I encourage you to try this because it has never harmed our seasoned Dutch Ovens. The foil is soft enough that it actually self-destructs as it removes the toughest particles. Rinse the Dutch oven and add 1” water and boil. Discard water, dry with paper towels and oil interior with 1 tablespoon vegetable oil, same for lid.

chopped parsley
2½ teaspoons salt
4 hard-boiled eggs, cut into wedges
1 stalk of celery, chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
½ teaspoon saffron
4 large potatoes, peeled, cut
4 stalks celery, thinly sliced
¼ teaspoon pepper

Dough:

2 cups sifted flour
2 eggs

Divide the dough in half and roll out each as thinly as possible into a 15" square and cut each square into 2" squares with a sharp knife.

Add potatoes and celery to the broth, simmer 25 minutes until vegetables are tender. Taste the broth and add more salt or pepper if needed.

Add the chicken pieces and bring to boil. Slide the squares of dough into the broth, a few at a time, pushing them down gently.

Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Ladle the pot pie into large soup bowls and garnish with chopped parsley and the wedges of hard cooked eggs.

Seal the bag and knead until mixture is uniformly moist. Core, don't peel, the apples and slice them cross-sectionally (they should be in rings).

Brown the sausages in the oven and remove to a hold plate. Pour off excess grease from oven. Place apple rings on the bottom of the oven and arrange the sausages on top of the apples to resemble spokes in a wheel. Pour the cornmeal mixture on top and smooth the surface. Cover the oven and place oven on 12 coals with 9 coals placed on the lid.

Bake for 20-30 minutes or until corn bread is done. A sliver of wood inserted in the center should come out clean. Remove the lid and place a large platted or aluminum foil cover board over the oven and invert the oven and board. Raise the oven off the bread. Slice and serve with hot maple syrup or honey whipped butter.

Suggestions: If you have more than 6 to serve, double the recipe and use a No.12 oven. Allow 5-10 minutes more cooking time.

1½ pounds lean ground beef
23 ounces spaghetti sauce
9 ounces shredded mozzarella cheese
3 eggs
2¼ cups cottage or ricotta cheese
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

In another bowl, add the cottage or ricotta cheese, Parmesan cheese, mozzarella cheese (reserve a few ounces for later), eggs, and oregano, and mix well.

Place the layers in the oven in the following order: Break up four lasagna noodles into the bottom of the oven. Spread about 1/3 of the meat mixture over the noodles. Spread ½ of the cheese mixture over the meat mixture. Break up five noodles and place over the top of the preceding mixtures. Spread ½ of the remaining meat mixture over the noodles. ## RED BEANS AND RICE

Ingredients: (8 servings)

1 pound dry red beans
6 cups cold water
6 cups hot water
1 pound smoked pork hocks
1 large onion, chopped
3 cloves garlic, minced
2 bay leaves
½ teaspoon ground red pepper
1 pound smoked sausage (Andouille or Polish) cooked rice
sliced green onions

Preparation:

Rinse the beans. In Dutch oven, add beans and cover in cold water, boil, simmer 2 minutes and remove from heat. Let stand covered for 1 hour, then drain and rinse beans.

In the same Dutch oven that you soaked the beans in (after draining and rinsing) combine beans, hot water, pork hocks, onion, garlic, bay leaves and red pepper. Bring to boiling, reduce heat and cover. Simmer for 2½ hours until beans are tender, stirring occasionally. If beans are still covered by too much water after this much time, cook an additional ½ hour uncovered.

Remove hocks - return any meat to pot, stir in the sausage and cook gently uncovered for 20-30 minutes or until a thick gravy forms, stirring occasionally (I don't find that it ever gets very 'thick' but it will be a good gravy consistency).

Remove bay leaves and serve over hot cooked rice. Sprinkle with green onions.

Spoon the sausage over the bread and sprinkle with the shredded cheese. Beat together the eggs, milk, mustard, salt and pepper and pour it over the mixture in the baking dish. Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight, if possible. If a baking pan is used, place it into a preheated Dutch oven, setting it on several stones to keep it off of the bottom. Bake at 350-degree F for 30 to 40 minutes or until set. If the recipe is increased allow a little longer baking time.

Variations:

- a. Substitute browned corned beef hash or diced ham for the browned sausage. Add raw or sautéed onions or mushrooms and/or chopped, cooked potatoes.
- b. For a meatless version, replace the sausage with chopped raw broccoli or spinach. The spinach version is particularly elegant if you use a combination of Swiss and feta cheese and add chopped green onions and a touch of tarragon. Thawed, well-drained frozen spinach works fine.
- c. Different cheeses or breads will give the dish a different character.

DESSERTS & BREADS

DUTCH OVEN COBBLER

Ingredients: (serves 10)

2 #2½ cans fruit or pie mix (peaches, apples, pineapple, etc.)
1 box white or yellow cake mix
¼ pound butter

Preparation:

Butter inside of Dutch oven (use only ovens with lipped top because you need to put coals on top of oven). Alternatively, you can line the inside of the Dutch oven with aluminum foil.

Place fruit in bottom of oven. Cover with cake mix and level it. Cut butter into about 10 pieces and scatter over cake mix. It is ready to bake. (Note: If you use peaches, you may need to dispose of about ½ of the liquid. Crushed pineapple has about the right amount of liquid.)

Place about 8 coals under the Dutch oven and about 16-20 coals on top of oven. Check after 30 minutes. Baking is often complete at 45 minutes.

Final Note: Because the Troop often has 100 or so people to feed and a substantial use of Dutch ovens, we have in recent years doubled the recipes in each oven. The number of coals for baking remains the same. Watch the baking closely since it is easier to burn the top of the cobbler with the double recipe.

1 cup raisins
1 cup sugar or brown sugar

Place the apples on a wire rack or in a pie tin that has been raised a little off the bottom of the Dutch oven. Cover Dutch oven and add coals to top and bottom (if 12" Dutch oven is used, place 10-12 briquettes on top and 8-10 briquettes on the bottom). Cook for 15-20 minutes until apples are tender. Let cool 15 minutes before serving.

Prepare apples. Line the bottom of the Dutch oven with aluminum foil. Melt butter and pour on bottom of Dutch oven. Spread brown sugar evenly over the bottom. Arrange apple slices in rows. Sprinkle with nuts and cherries.

Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Pour over apple slices. Bake, uncovered for 40 to 50 minutes or until tooth pick inserted in center comes out clean.

Mix yellow cake mix as directed on package using pineapple juice as part of your liquid. Pour batter over pineapple. Cover oven and place in over 12 coals. Place 9 coals on the lid. Bake, covered for 30 to 40 minutes or until tooth pick inserted in center comes out clean. Allow to cool for 10 minutes and then invert on foil covered cardboard.

- ½ cup whipping cream

Preparation:

Mix first five ingredients (cream cheese, sugar, ricotta, eggs, sour cream) until smooth. Melt chips, butter and whipping cream over low heat until smooth. Add almond flavoring.
